

Laser Energetics Announces its Dazer Lasers[®] - Light Fighting Technologies are Featured on CNN's "Edge of Discovery" program

MERCERVILLE, N.J., December 15, 2010 -- Laser Energetics, Inc. (Pink Sheets: LNGT - News) is pleased to announce that the Company's Dazer Laser[®] – Light Fighting Technologies will be featured this week on CNN's Edge of Discovery program. The CNN film crew came to the facility of Laser Energetics in November to do a feature about the company's "Ultimate Non-Lethal – Less Violent[™]" Weapons Serving Humanity.

Robert D. Battis, Founder and CEO of Laser Energetics, stated, "Our leading edge technology has been witnessed and validated by militaries and law enforcement agencies around the world. Situations our products can address, such as austerity riots in the streets of Athens, Greece, student riots in London last week, and riots in Rome yesterday, are featured on the news on a regular basis. It was only a matter of time before major news organizations like CNN would learn and begin media coverage regarding our world class Non Lethal – Less Violent[™] products. We expect that such coverage will only continue to grow as our products are adopted for use by militaries, law enforcement, and security agencies around the world."

The CNN Edge of Discovery segment on Dazer Laser[®] begins airing today and runs through this Sunday, December 19th. See Schedule below. All times listed are in Eastern Standard Time (EST).

- Wednesday – December 15, 2010, 6 – 7 AM
- Wednesday – December 15, 2010, 1 – 2 PM
- Saturday – December 18, 2010, 2 – 3 PM
- Sunday – December 19, 2010, 6 – 7 PM
